It is a rare honor indeed to be offered the chance at a guest editorial. Not since I earned a Fields Medal for my work in combinatory superstring theory have I felt so honored! What's that you say? No, I'm sure this isn't "pawning off a job on someone else". I am certain this is a great honor! You must be thinking of when Ron has me taking out the garbage in his office (oh if only I were joking).

This is my first full year working full time at Reaper, and I am continually amazed at how much is going on here behind the scenes. I moved to Texas 4 years ago and worked for Reaper part time for 2 years before moving to Thailand for a year. When I got back last year, I came on full time to do game development. Warlord 2nd Edition was first on my plate, since I had started that project in Thailand. (no, I didn't go to Thailand just to get a better understanding of the Reptus faction!)

Since being here, I get to see and hear all the many, many projects going on. There are constant contract jobs, including some from major video game corporations! There are multiple plastic and resin projects in various stages of development. New lines of minis get thought up and designed regularly. The building itself is under constant siege by electricians and carpenters as they constantly tweak the building to our needs. What I am trying to convey is the sense of constant movement. Everyone here has a half dozen irons in various fires, 90% of which are invisible to the end consumer. When we start a new line like Chronoscope or Legendary encounters, or a new license like Pathfinder, there was work put into 9 other lines or licenses that never made it out of the gate.

My personal area of interest is, of course, game development. We've been hard at work this past year on developing games. We've got card games, board games, and RPG games in various stages of design. 90% of these will never see the light of day, but hey – I get paid to play games all day. The most exciting games for me are, of course, the miniature games. Warlord will be expanded this summer with the Savage North setting for the Warlord 2nd Edition ruleset. This is not an 'expansion' per se, but an additional core rulebook. It will contain all of the rules found in the Warlord 2nd Edition book released last summer, thus making it its own core rulebook. It is simply set in the northern lands of Adon, and contains 8 different factions. Players will not need to buy both books to play a single faction.

Reich of the Dead is still being worked on, as are 3 more RAGE-based games. We'll be keeping the games coming to you for years and years! I know we haven't had the best track record when it comes to games. We're not asking anyone to 'give us another chance' or anything. We'll prove we mean business by our releases over the next few years.

On top of all the above, we're gearing up for a busy Con season! It starts with Wonderfest in Louisville, KY, continues with ReaperCon on May 20th, then Origins in June and GenCon in August. Come see us at any of these events and tell us how much you love us!

Ron Gus

WARLORD GETS SAVAGE!

This summer, be on the lookout for our next Warlord Expansion - The Savage North! The Savage North is set in far northern Adon and features all new factions including the marauding giants of Icingstead, the crazed Bloodstone Gnomes of Kundarak, the wood elves of Tembrithil, the dwarves of Kragmarr, and more!

Warlord: the Savage North is supported by lots of new miniatures - check out the Warlord Section of Casketworks or www.reapermini.com now!

Overheard at the Table:

Every Wednesday evening many of us here at Reaper gather together to play D&D Encounters at the Asylum, our on site store. During the most recent game night, the group I was playing with was joined by two newcomers, a pair of brothers ages 12 and 14. As I said, they were new to the group so I asked them if they'd ever heard of Reaper before.

"Nope, not until tonight," the oldest said. "We just came in to play D&D."

"Oh," I replied, "so do you know what it is that Reaper Miniatures does?"

The brothers exchanged glances and shrugged their shoulders.

I gestured to the gaming table, where Reaper Bryan (our DM for the night) had set out an impressive display of miniatures for us to game with. "We make metal miniatures for painting, collecting, and gaming."

The younger brother's eyes lit up in surprise, wonder, and a little excitement.

"Oh," he said, "you mean they make miniatures out of metal now?"

We all just busted out laughing when we heard that. After the session was over, Bryan gave them a tour of the shop. Needless to say, we've added two new recruits to the new hobby of metal miniatures!

WARLORDTM

SECOND EDITION

SAVAGE NORTHTM

The Savage North, as it has become known by the civilized nations sharing its borders, is the inhospitable stretch of untamed pristine wilderness beginning at the northern frontiers of Anhur, Haldor, and Ritterlich and extending northwards to the impassable glaciers of the Ice Crown Mountain range. This veritable no-man's land stretches from Frost Wind Bay in the east to the foothills of the Kjord Peninsula in the west and all points in between. No one owns this land although many tribes have laid claim to it by birthright or by right of conquest. Since the distant past giants, dwarves, elves, orcs, have vied for dominance but to date none have been successful.

The land varies from sheer ice-capped mountains of granite, crumbling craggy foothills of slate and flint, dark primeval forests, and wind-blown tundra. It is a beautiful but austere region where only the strong and wary survive for long.

Warlord: The Savage North is an all-new self contained tabletop miniatures game set in the frozen lands of northern Adon. The book features the core rules based on Reaper's RAGE game engine with eight new factions ready to fight. A history of the setting, map, and detailed background information for each of the forces offers players an opportunity to build and paint unique armies in this inhospitable region.

New Factions include:

- Bloodstone Gnomes
- Wood Elves of Tembrithil
- Dark Elves of the Darkreaches
- Dwarves of Kragmarr
- Orcs of Kargir
- Giants of Icingstead
- Koborlas of the Nornwood
- Sisterhood of the Blade

The book also includes art by industry veteran Wayne Reynolds along with information featuring the lands and characters of the Savage North!

Available July 2010!

WARLORD RISING

Taltos, a land that has never known peace, is thrown into peril as the ancient promise of an awakened god is about to be fulfilled. A fallen knight and a snakeman form an unlikely alliance to protect one innocent. A unit of dwarves set out to free a betrayer. A slavemaster gambles all to seize the ultimate prize. A necromancer activates the last stages of his dire plan. The destiny of thousands wavers as every answer brings more questions, each victory brings only more battles, and a race to the final showdown begins. Allies and enemies are counted as Warlords rise in the land of Taltos.

An Excerpt From Warlord Rising:

"Herimul!" yelled Hamakir. "Chosen of Sokar, favored of the wind, keeper of the final storm! I am a humble man in the service of Sokar. I seek you!"

A geyser of sand erupted behind Hamakir. He spun around and watched as more sand was pushed up from below by a power unseen. The sand piled higher than the dunes, and then spread out to either side, revealing a flight of worn stone steps. The square mouth of a buried structure was at the bottom.

Hamakir took the stairs quickly and passed into the darkness...

In the middle of the room was a chair carved from stone. A desiccated figure occupied the chair. The empty eye sockets stared at Hamakir, and black and broken teeth lined the lipless mouth. A ring of gold circled the skull, wisps of wrappings hanging around it like hair. The tattered remains of clothing and burial linen did little to hide the skeletal frame beneath. Bone fingers scratched at the arm of the chair in agitation.

"Why do you disturb me?"

P-65

HEAVY METAL

P-65: the metal formula that made Reaper famous!! It's a blend of white metals designed to capture every subtle detail as well as allow for maximum metal flexibility for straightening and posing. Bringing this metal formula back into production is a big step for us so we felt it only appropriate to name the new line P-65 in honor of its heritage.

P-65 is a lead based alloy similar to 60% lead - 40% tin solder and is the perfect mix to cast miniatures in. The P-65 miniature line is designed specifically for the adult modeler and is being released to give them a choice in how they spend their hobby dollars.

SECOND EDITION - A GALAXY AT WAR

Tensions caused by conflicting ideals, goals, cultures, and visions for the direction of the galaxy have finally exploded into armed conflict.

It has barely been a decade since the Battle of Procyon ended the first Galaxy War. Nevertheless, the major powers of the Core Worlds are again at each other's throats. New patriots have been enlisted and veterans have been re-activated. You've been called upon to fight for your people and your homeland. The galaxy needs commanders like you. Legends will be written about your deeds!

CAV is a fast-paced, small unit, science-fiction miniatures-based combat game set in the Reaper Universe. CAV is a complete game and uses the Reaper Adventure Game Engine for faster and more enjoyable play.
